

Terms of Reference: CEOS Executive Officer (CEO)

Purpose: The Committee on Earth Observation Satellites (CEOS) Executive Officer (CEO) supports CEOS objectives to coordinate Earth observation (EO) satellite missions on a global basis, and to enhance the use and sharing of their data for societal benefit. The CEO position was first agreed to at the 20th CEOS Plenary in Buenos Aires in 2006. The role of the CEO is to ensure the efficient conduct of CEOS activities in support of internal and external stakeholders. These external stakeholders may include, but are not limited to: the Group on Earth Observations (GEO); the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC); the United Nations International Strategy for Disaster Reduction; the United Nations Convention on Biological Diversity; the Global Climate, Ocean, and Terrestrial Observing Systems; and the Group of Seven (G7) /Group of Twenty (G20) industrialized nations.

Organization: The CEO is appointed by the CEOS Chair for a two-year term. Every effort will be made to ensure the role of the CEO is fulfilled by a direct-hire CEOS Agency employee (not a contractor). If the CEO is a direct-hire CEOS Agency employee, the individual will be detailed to the CEO role on a full-time basis. In the event that no such suitable Agency candidate is available, a contractor may be selected for the role on an exceptional basis, provided that the services of the contractor are secured via a direct contract between the sponsoring CEOS Agency and the contractor (and not via an intermediary). The two-year term may be extended or renewed if jointly agreed by the CEO, incoming CEOS Chair, and CEO's host Agency, if the incumbent is a direct-hire employee of a CEOS Agency.

The CEO serves the entire CEOS organization and is expected to act with neutrality. If the CEO is a contractor, the sponsoring CEOS Agency will be responsible for ensuring that conflicts of interest with any potential commercial activities are avoided, and the direction and priorities of the CEO's activities are aligned with the guidance received from the CEOS Chair, SIT Chair and CEOS Secretariat, as outlined in these Terms of Reference. In addition, if a contractor is appointed, CEOS leadership may delegate CEOS representation at meetings with external entities from the CEO to a direct-hire CEOS Agency employee.

Additionally, with the consent of the CEOS Chair and CEO, a CEOS Agency may also detail a Deputy CEOS Executive Officer (DCEO), on at least a half-time basis, for a two-year time period. It is anticipated the DCEO will move into the CEO position at the end of the two-year period, though this is not a requirement and shall depend on Agency commitments and resources. In the event a DCEO is detailed, the CEO and DCEO will agree upon their respective duties to fulfil the objectives and requirements specified in this document, and communicate this arrangement to the CEOS community. The CEO participates in the meetings of the CEOS Secretariat. The CEO may be invited to Troika meetings at the discretion of the CEOS Chair.
