Hosted by

Comisión Nacional de Actividades Espaciales (CONAE)

Córdoba, Argentina

April 18-20, 2023

Teófilo Tabanera Space Center and Córdoba City, Argentina

Córdoba City, Argentina

Córdoba, the capital of the Argentine province of the same name, is known for its Spanish colonial architecture. Córdoba City, Argentina's second city, is also known as "La Docta" because in 1613 the first Argentine university was founded there. Its historic center is a summary of colonial architecture where you can walk through it and be surprised on every block. As a university city, Córdoba has a happening nightlife scene.

Most international flights arrive at Ministro Pistarini International Airport, best known as Ezeiza (EZE), which is 32 km (20 miles) away from downtown Buenos Aires, a journey of about 50 minutes long.

For more information about the airport and flights, please visit the official website: <https://www.aa2000.com.ar/ezeiza?qa=EZE>

From there, there are many daily flight connections which connect with Córdoba airport in 1 hour.

There is also a domestic airport in Buenos Aires -Jorge Newbery Airport, best known as Aeroparque (AEP)- with more frequencies to Córdoba.

“Tienda León” offers different shuttle services from airport to airport.

To the Córdoba city centre:

Once you get to the airport, you have several options to reach the city center :<https://www.aa2000.com.ar/cordoba/Transporte?qa=COR>

Meeting venue

The meeting will be held in “Centro Espacial Teófilo Tabanera” (CETT) located 30 km southwest of the city of Córdoba

<https://goo.gl/maps/1JRSmjnzDxf1wq4A6>

The transportation to and from CETT will be covered with a shuttle service.

Money and ATMs currency

The local currency is the Argentine peso (ARS). Please notice that locally, the same symbol as for the dollar ($) is used for the peso. Don't be confused, in shops and restaurants prices expressed using the $ symbol are in Argentine pesos always, unless stated otherwise. US dollars are usually referred to using the symbol: U$S.

It is easy to exchange money at “casas de cambio” (bureaux de change/currency exchanges) and at most banks - note that you'll need to provide identification. Local currency can also be withdrawn 24 hours a day from ATMs. Some shops, hotels and restaurants may accept cash payments in US dollars or euros.

Most large shops and restaurants accept credit or debit cards. For more information, please visit this link <https://turismo.buenosaires.gob.ar/en/article/money>).

Type I sockets

AC current outlets in Argentina are 220V, 50Hz. The standard outlet has three pins with a layout like in China (type I socket). Most sockets accommodate both the two-pin European (type I socket compatible with type E and F sockets, "two thin round pins") like plugs and the three-pin plugs (see figure).

Note: in most of the cases, this small adapter could be enough:

Fall!

Argentina and Córdoba are located in the southern hemisphere, so in April we are in autumn with a very mild weather. Temperature in Córdoba during this month is usually lower than 25°C (77°F) and higher than 13°C (55°F). You can visit the National Weather Forecast (<https://www.smn.gob.ar>).

We wish you a pleasant stay in Córdoba!
